

Dear Parents,

We made a valiant attempt to break the Guinness World Record but came short. Our children and staff were splendid but the adjudicators wanted a 100% perfection and our very youngest KG1 students had to battle the rough weather and try their best to deliver.

It was a moment of pride for me that we came close to perfection with 5 days of practice. The little white specks you see in the KG1 side where the cards flipped was the reason for not making it!

We will try again later in the year. We never say die at KGS! We have learned invaluable lessons, seen the discipline and collaboration of youngsters and the patience and perseverance of all staff. We experienced a synergy that brings us all closer together.

There is more to be learned from having tried, than not having attempted it at all.

Thank you as always being the wind beneath our wings and supporting us in all our endeavours.

With warm regards,

Asha Alexander
